

ABSTRACT

Methods are provided for increasing yields of soluble protein, including for increasing yields of soluble recombinant protein. Specifically, methods are provided for increasing the solubility and stability of recombinant proteins by co-expression of a phosphatase.